

The IPCS Summer School will take place in the Physics Department of Université de Montréal, Friday-Saturday, July 28-29, 2017.

How to reach the Summer School location?

1. Université de Montréal is linked to the metro system through the blue line (Université de Montréal station). From the Centre Sheraton, take the orange metro line in the Côte-Vertu direction. Change to the blue line at the Snowdon station (Saint-Michel direction). Leave the metro at the second station, Université de Montréal.
2. As you exit the station, reach the steep wooden staircase and walk up to the main building. The Roger-Gaudry building is easily recognizable with its central tower.
3. Enter the Roger-Gaudry building through the main door.
4. Once in the building, turn left and walk to the elevator located near the intersection of the E-G-H wings.
5. Select the 9th floor.
6. As you exit the elevator, turn left and then take the staircase on your right, leading to room G-1015.

Since you may not be familiar with the metro system, allow yourself one hour from the Centre Sheraton to reach the Summer School location. We hope to see you at 8:30AM. Local graduate students will be there Friday morning to guide you from the entrance of the Roger-Gaudry building.

Groupe de physique des plasmas
Université de Montréal
IPCS Summer School

Plasma Processing Laboratory
McGill University

Le Belvédère in
Montréal's Old Port

Centre Sheraton

- Station de métro
- Station intermodale
- Ligne de trains de banlieue
- Station avec ascenseur
- Station avec ascenseur accès ligne orange seulement